MINEWORKERS STRIKE VOTE IS BLAMED ON YOUNGSTERS

Four Hundred Thousand Men Failed To Cast Any Ballots At Election

ASK WAGE RAISE

Demand For Lower Coal Price Will Be Dropped Is Prediction

GREATER OUTPUT

Board Of Trade Expected To Insist On Increase Of Production

London, August 31.—The figures in the miners' ballot, showing a 71 percent vote for a strike, constitute only a five percent margin above the necessary two-thirds needed for a strike. It is widely pointed out that the margin is nothing to boast about especially as it is understood that 100,000 boys voted solidly for a strike, representing certainly more than the margin of votes obtained.

Consequently the nature of the vote is likely to check the ambitions of the extremists, especially as the bulk of the 400,000 non-votes may be considered as against a strike.

DROP PRICE QUESTION

The result is regarded as not having strengthened the position of the leaders of the Federation, who are now reported to be prepared to drop the demand for a reduction in the price of coal and to concentrate upon increased wages.

There is a consensus of opinion in this connection that the Board of Trade is prepared to negotiate with the miners with regard to increased wages, if the question is linked up with a guarantee for increased output, and furthermore that there is no other solution of the problem.

London, September 1.—The Triple Alliance further considered the position of the miners this morning and decided to authorise a Sub-Committee of the Alliance to remain in continuous session with power to convene a further meeting of the full body as circumstances may direct after the policy of the miners is finally declared at the Miners' Conference tomorrow.

Interest Rates From U.S. Lifted

Tighter money with increased interest rates in New York are having a direct effect on trade to Shanghai, as is shown by a notification issued to the Shanghai branch of the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation from its head office to the effect that beginning September 1 the rate of interest on all outward remittances from America will be 9 percent.

This advance is the second within comparatively recent months, the rate having been advanced from 7 to 8 persent about a half year ago.

TYPHOON GUN SENDS SHIPS TO SAFE MOORINGS

Skippers Hunt Shelter When Storm Warnings Are Received In Shanghai

After the sounding of the typhoon gun yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock the Shanghai shore of the Whangpoo was abandoned by all craft and the junks and other vessels that had not scurried into the sheltered waters of the creeks sought safety from the coming storm on the opposite shore of the river.

Though the gale along the waterfront increased in intensity through the day yesterday and early this morning was sending up miniature rollers along the foreshore it was thought at 2 o'clock this morning that Shanghai probably would escape any severe consequences from the hurricane which has been sweeping the sea outside for the past two days.

SHIPPING SUSPENDED

Shipping generally was suspended yesterday, vessels generally tying up here to await the passing of the storm. The boats of the two regular Ningpo Lines, the Hsin Ningshao and the Hsin Peking delayed their sailings and other vessels that tied up due to the storm were the C. M. steamer Irene for Tientsin, the C. M. steamer Kwangchi for the Native Customs and the C. M. Kungping for Chefoo and Newchwang.

Forewarning of the swift approach of the storm was given in reports issued from the Siccawei observatory Thursday when notices of storms in three separate areas were given. The typhoon passed the Loochoo Islands Thursday when a hurricane raged all day in the sea south of the mouth of the Yangtsze and was felt as far west as the center of the Yellow Sea. Another center of disturbance was located at the same time between Luzon and Formosa but observations were lacking exactly to locate this.

APPROACHES SADDLES

Yesterday morning barometric pressure was decidedly lower and typhoon clouds were more numerous with the wind backing into the northeast with squalls of increasing intensity through the day.

Yesterday afternoon the storm was reported swiftly approaching the Saddles but it was then thought that rising pressure in the north might force it southward and away from Shanghai.

A violent storm at sea with heavy squalls of rain were reported all along the coast between Shanghai and Foochow.

In accordance with the prediction of Siccawei observatory an unusually high tide developed yesterday when a portion of the Public Gardens were inundated along the shore.

So far no uneasiness has been felt for vessels due to arrive here and no reports have been heard of disasters at sea. The steamer Scharnhorst of the Messageries Maritimes which was due to arrive yesterday afternoon from Marseilles was known to have been caught in a portion of the storm, but no fears are entertained for its safety and it is expected to arrive this evening or tomorrow morning.

COX LIBELLOUS, DECLARES HAYS TO COMMITTEE

Republican Slush Fund Denied By Man Who Is In Charge Of Campaign

BRITTEN IS QUESTIONED

Admits His British Charges Were Based Merely On His Own Ideas

(Reuter's Service)

Chicago, August 31.—The Senate Committee, investigating expenditure in connection with the Presidential elections, today commenced its examination of Mr. William H. Hays, chairman of the Republican committee, who declared that Governor Cox's charges were "false and libellous" and asserted that the whole Republican campaign of 1920 would be carried on with a total expenditure of $5,600,000.

A lengthy examination of Mr. Hays and of Senator Albert B. Cummins, former chairman of the republican committee, failed to confirm Governor Cox's charges.

Congressman Fred A. Britten's charges against the British Embassy in connection with the Presidential campaign funds were finally exploded when Mr. Britten appeared before the Senate's investigating committee. Mr. Britten failed to produce the slightest evidence in support of his charges and was finally driven to admit that it was only his personal idea.

Italian Traffic In Arms In Shanghai To Be Subject Of Inquiry

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, September 3.—A mandate was issued yesterday evening, appointing General Wu Pei-fu Assistant Inspection Commissioner for Chihli, Shantung and Honan.

Another mandate relieved Hsu Nai-lin of the Civil Governorship of Kirin, which General Pao Kwei-ching will administer concurrently with the Tuchunship.

PLEAD WITH LI

General Chang Tso-lin and Tsao Kun have sent a joint telegram to General Li Shun, advising him to retain the post of Chief Northern Peace Delegate. Simultaneously they requested the President to appoint General Li Shun Inspection Commissioner of Kiangsu, Chekiang and Anhui forthwith.

It is reported that the Government will shortly appoint General Ma Fu-hsiang Tuchun of Kansu owing to his valuable services in connection with the Eight Tuchuns' League.

APPOINTMENT PROTESTED

In response to representations by General Lu Yung-hsiang, the Waichiaopu states that inquiries will first be made from the Italian Legation with regard to the alleged traffic in arms in Shanghai, after which action will depend on the Legation's reply.

The Shuntien Shih Pao says that a further French protest has been lodged with the government in connection with the appointment of an American Adviser to the Wine and Tobacco Gabelle.

A hundred thousand people cheered the King on his way to the quaint old town of Hadersev and the day after at the historical hills near Dybbol, where a desperate stand was made in 1864 by the Danish troops and where the old mill round which a fight to the finish took place now will be preserved as a national monument. The people of North Slesvig voted under a plebescite to rejoin Denmark after having been restored to freedom by the war.

Canton Will Not Talk Peace Until Kwangtung-Kwangsi Dispute Ends

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, September 2.—An attempt to mine some Chinese gunboats at Whampoa is reported to have been discovered, though this is not admitted by the naval authorities. Mines are said to have been laid near several ships.

Canton has not been allowed to hear officially of the success of the Cantonese troops over the Kwangsi forces at Suichow.

Detectives and secret agents are scrutinising all hotel guests, in search of rebel suspects.

Wen Tsung-yao has no intention of leaving immediately for Shanghai. Canton does not care to talk of peace until the Kwangtung-Kwangsi dispute has been well settled.

Some members of Parliament at Canton, led by Li Fu, are advocating the removal of the seat of Parliament from Canton.

There are two hundred members of Parliament still on the pay roll.

Inferior Goods Marked "Made In U.S.A." Or England Dumped On Market

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, September 1.—An official report states that Germany in an endeavor to regain her foreign trade and realise sums on manufactured goods, which otherwise might remain unsold owing to foreign prejudice, is dumping surplus inferior goods in England and the United States. Exports to England are marked "made in America" and exports to the United States "made in England."

The report says that such tactics discredit American manufactures in England and vice versa.

Lumber Price Toboggans Tls. 65 To Tls. 50 With Further Drop Expected

Heavy Slump Predicted In Trade Two Weeks Ago Is Brought About Following Arrival Here Of Shipment From United States

Lumber prices in Shanghai have slumped sharply in line with prediction voiced about two weeks ago in lumber circles, as published at that time in THE CHINA PRESS. Trade notices announcing the drop in prices and setting forth the new scale are being issued to the trade today by the China Import and Export Lumber Company.

The fall in values within the past fortnight amounts to 30 percent on the value of cargo today. Prices, too, two weeks ago, were Taels 65 a thousand for ordinary lumber and after steadily weakening since the middle of August lumber was freely quoted yesterday at Taels 50 per thousand with indications of being weak at that price.

MARKET IS WEAK

The price scale given in the trade circular being issued by The China Import and Export Lumber Company quotes the rate per thousand feet at Taels 55 for ordinary business up to 10,000 feet in quantity. Larger orders, the circular states, are subject to negotiation with the price of Taels 50 as the basis of orders for 100,000 feet and over with cash against delivery.

The circular does not say anything about probable tendencies of the market, but in its wording implies the weakness that exists in the local trade in consequence of the excessive stocks on hand in the yards of the various dealers.

STOCKS INCREASED

Stocks held in Shanghai were increased measurably in the past week by the arrival of the steamer Hakushika Maru from America with a cargo of approximately 5,000,000 feet of lumber on board. A small portion of this was consigned to Jardine, Matheson and Company, the balance being imported by A. O. Anderson and Company on behalf of a number of small dealers.

It is apparently the arrival of this cargo and the scramble of these small dealers to clear their purchases at the least possible sacrifice that has resulted in bringing down market values so swiftly from Tales 65 per thousand to Taels 50.

The outlook at the moment, in the view of prominent men in the trade, is that prices will undergo further declines and will drop another Taels 5 in the next ten days or two weeks and the price per thousand may go as low at Taels 40 before the close of the month.

The executive will consist of seven Rectors to be elected annually.

PRINCE COMPANY IS TO TAKE OVER BIG STOCKYARDS

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, September 1.—The plans of five big meat-packers for disposal of their stockyard interests under the recent decree, contemplate the sale of these interests to the F. H. Prince Company. The book-value of the stock is estimated at between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000.

Note.—The foregoing despatch does not refer to the sale of the various packing interests of the "Big Five," but merely means that they are being compelled to relinquish their joint ownership of the great stockyards.—Ed.

In spite of frequent machine gunning the troops are entrenching in the streets.

THREE MORE KILLED

London, September 1.—Three more persons were killed and many wounded at Belfast today as a result of attacks on shipyard workers, going to work. The trouble began at eight o'clock when a thousand shipyard men going to work on tramcars, were fired upon by snipers on the roofs.

The military rushed up and fired. Two men were killed in the ensuing panic and the third fatality occurred during a pitched battle between shipyard men and dockers, which was suppressed by the military. The city is now quiet. The death-roll since Saturday numbers 24.

Delegates Maintain Rigid Stand In Conference With Ataman

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, September 2.—The Vladivostok delegates report on their negotiations with the Verdhne-Udinsk and Chita Governments regarding the formation of a single, united Far Eastern Siberian Republic, has been published.

The report states that the Verdhne-Udinsk representatives adopted a domineering and at times, even a threatening manner during the negotiations; throughout they assumed the attitude of the leading Government of the Far East. They were brought to reason, however, by the Vladivostok peasant delegates, who, backed up by their party in the Vladivostok Assembly, were in the strong position of being able to turn the scales.

PEASANTS IN CONTROL

Again in the negotiation with Ataman Semenoff, it was the Peasant delegates who played the leading role.

There is no doubt that the Peasants Party in the Vladivostok Assembly, where they follow an independent policy, supporting Left or Right for purely democratic principles but being bound to neither, are the one force which renders the consolidation of the Far East a practical possibility.

COSSACKS ADJOURN

The Cossack gathering at Grodekovo has been dissolved by Colonel Savicki, who, though at first inclined to a reactionary policy, finally consented to work in harmony with the Vladivostok government.

POLES ANSWER TO U. S. NOTE IS SATISFACTORY

American Secretary Of State Approves Of Arraignment Of Soviet

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, September 2.—The Polish reply to the American note, while agreeing with the American wish to have Russian territory respected, states that Poland is forced to consider the serious consequences which might result, should the Polish counter offensive cease at a fixed line without satisfactory guarantees from the Soviets. The reply draws attention to the fact that the Bolsheviki violated Poland's frontiers, although Great Britain called upon the Soviet to halt at the ethnographic boundaries of Poland.

Mr. Bainbridge Colby, the Secretary of State, announced yesterday that the reply was considered entirely satisfactory.

Warsaw, August 31.—A communique issued here today says: "The combined advance of the Poles and Ukrainians has already liberated the greater part of Eastern-Galicia from Bolshevik occupation.

The Poles have occupied the whole left bank of the Dniester. The Ukrainian offensive, crossing the Dniester South of Buczacz, is developing successfully, compelling the Bolshevik detachments to retreat, to avoid encirclement."

1,000 POLICE ON GUARD FOR U.S. PARTY IN TOKIO

Elaborate Precautions Taken Against Mishap To American Congressional Visitors

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, September 2.—The American Congressmen arrived tonight after an uneventful trip through Japan. They were met at Tokio Central station by about four hundred persons, including prominent government officials, members of the diet, the mayor and a number of prominent business men.

The party were ushered down the platform through the big station to the exit by the venerable station master Mr. Takahashi, who has performed this office for all distinguished visitors and members of the Imperial family since railways were inaugurated in Japan.

HEAVY POLICE GUARD

The platform and the large square in front of the station had been cleared of the ordinary public and the station was guarded inside and outside by 1,000 police, in uniform and plain clothes, to prevent possible trouble from Korean malcontents and others.

The party were then taken in a fleet of motor cars to the Imperial Hotel which was gaily decorated with American and Japanese flags in honor of the occasion.

CORDIAL WELCOME

The Marquis Okuma and Baron Goto contributed articles to the Asahi welcoming the party and urging that the opportunity should be seized to clear up outstanding problems between America and Japan.

The following statement of the Congressional Party's trip through Korea was issued in Shanghai last night by the Korean Bureau of Public Information:

KOREA'S WELCOME

The Seoul Dong Ah Daily of recent issues reports in great detail the various methods by which the Korean people expressed to the visiting Congressional Party their desire for independence. At most of the principal railroad stations in spite of the unnecessary repressive measures of the Japanese, throngs of Koreans, with American and Korean flags in some cases, shouted, "Dai Hahan Doknip Mansie, Mikook, Mansei," which means, "Long Live, Korean Independence, Long Live, America."

In some places in order to attract the attention of the party throngs of Koreans shouted from the summit of neighboring hills. When the party entered Seoul at 6 p.m. August 24, demonstrations broke out in certain parts of the city which became more intensified and greater the next day.

From Namdamoon station to the Chosen Hotel both sides of the street were thickly lined with troops and wherever the party went the Koreans were not allowed within visibile distance of the visitors.

The shops were all closed on August 24 and 25 and during these two days only shouts of "Mansei" intermingled with the rattling of the Japanese cavalry gave evidence of something unusual to the otherwise taciturn city of Seoul.

INCIDENT AT Y.M.C.A.

In front of the Y.M.C.A. some 10,000 Koreans were gathered risking the relentless fury of the Japanese guardians of peace. What happened inside the building is now well known. Suffice to say the Americans had a rare treat of beholding for themselves the "Spirit of Bushido" in full flurry.

At one place some 40 or more ricsha coolies gave full bent to their patriotic feelings. The dispersion and the reassembling of Koreans with the attendant repressive measures of the Japanese took place all day. The exact number is not known but hundreds were arrested in Seoul.

Scenes much like the above took place on a smaller scale in Chungchu Anchoo, Pengyang, Fusan and Inchun. In Penfyang and in Shin Enchoo hundreds were arrested.

Some Korean journalists who went to Mukden to accompany the party to Seoul were not permitted to travel with the Congressmen, although a Korean with a Japanese inspired memorial was allowed on the train and made to present to the Congressmen the supposed true sentiment of the Koreans, it is charged.

If a Japanese presented the case it would have been less humorous. One can not help but recall the fact how Marquis Saionji attempted to take the former Crown Prince of Korea to the Paris Peace Conference to have him tell the delegates there that the Koreans were satisfied, under Japan but which did not happen because of the Korean Independence Movement.

Brussels, September 1.—The new Franco-Belgian Military Convention has been approved by both Governments and will be ready for ratification in a few days. The Convention lays down the role which will be assigned to Antwerp in the event of a new invasion of Belgium, provides for the direction of the retreat of the Belgian army in the event of first defensive battle not checking an invasion and arrangements are also made for a different concentration of the Belgian forces from that in 1914.

The Convention in no way encroaches on the prerogatives of the Parliaments of the two countries and limits itself to providing for the eventuality of a German attack.

Lancashire Printers Go Out On Strike

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 1.—The position in the printing trade strike at Manchester and Liverpool which has resulted in the stoppage of practically all newspapers in Lancashire, has become very grave.

The strike of printers at those centers was not authorised by the Typographical Union, which represents the organisations outside London, but the Manchester and Liverpool branches of the Union struck work without notice and the newspaper proprietors have now issued a ultimatum that, unless the printers return to work by September 3, a general lockout will be declared on all newspapers outside London.

Few First Rate Minds Left Among Men Of Germany

Old Leaders In Government Have Fled Country Or Are In Retirement Awaiting Events, While Their Places Are Taken By Profiteers Of The War

BY A. G. GARDINER

(Former Editor of The London Daily News)

London, July 5.—Before attempting to sum up the conclusions of my tour in Germany and Austria a few scattered notes may be usefully thrown together.

First, as to personalities. As I recall the public men I have seen I am struck by the poverty of first-rate minds. The old rulers have vanished. They have fled the country or gone to their estates, where they are awaiting whatever events may bring forth. Their places are taken by the new rich—the profiteers of the war. A few men of the past, like Dr. Dernburg and Count Posadowsky, continue in public affairs, but they are not prominent, and no new individual forces are apparent. Erzberger, clever but distrusted, has lost his hold on the Center; Scheidemann is still the most considerable figure among the Majority Socialists; Edward Bernstein is the most pure and enlightened spiritual force. Among the Independents, Ledebour is the man who exercises most influence.

Apart from the party leaders, one figure alone stands out in conspicuous isolation. It is that of Herr Walter Rathenau, the director of the A. E. G. (German General Electric Company). He impresses one as easily the most distinguished mind in Germany today, at once imaginative, learned and practical thinker, writer, and man of affairs, one of those rare men who think in many qualities and think synthetically. What part he will play in the reconstruction of Germany, and through Germany of Europe, time alone will show; but it should be a great part if intellect is to count in the task.

I called on my old friend, Professor Brentano, the famous economist and Free Trader, of Munich University. He received me—in his stable. He had left the house he rented, intending to occupy another house which he owned, but the municipal government of Munich is in the hands of the Socialists, who have made drastic regulations as to housing of the poor, with the ... that, his house being already ...ted he can neither occupy it ...ent a room in it. So he has ... up the stable for his old age. ... war, which has played such ...oc with his noble ideals of ...n betterment, has not entirely ...ded his serene and beautiful ...rit. He spoke with good humor ... amusement of the fact that while ... was permitted to go to England ... November to attend a Fight of ... Famine Conference, his applica... while there for the extension ... the visit by a few days was ...used.

BEHAVIOR OF BLACK TROOPS

Curiously enough, I found the feeling on the subject of the employment of black troops at Frankfort less intense in Frankfort itself than elsewhere in Germany. In the country generally it has embittered feeling against France in an extraordinary degree. Frankfort opinion was less heated on the subject, though sufficiently indignant. I made inquiries of the police authorities in regard to the alleged outrages, and came to the conclusion that they had been much exaggerated. The police had clear evidence of two cases of outrage upon women; but beyond these alleged nothing.

"The black men on the whole behaved at least as well as the white, and were speedily removed," was the comment of a Frankfort journalist on the subject.

The lack of raw materials is widely felt. A director of the great engineering works at Nuremberg told me that they used to get 80 percent of their iron ore from the Saar Valley. That supply was now cut off, and from other sources they could get only 50 percent of their requirements.

The loss of coal is no less serious. In March, 1913, the coal production in Germany was 15,413,388 tons; in March of this year allowing for the loss of the sources in Alsace-Lorraine, the Saar and the Palatinate, it was only a little over 10,000,000 tons—a decline of one-third. Add to this the tonnage, 20,000,000 a year, which Germany has to supply to France under the treaty, and the measure of the impoverishment will be understood. It is a serious grievance that the French pay for this coal at German values and not at the world price. "They buy our coal at £1," said Dr. Dernburg, "and can compete in the world market with it at £3 10s. That is neither fair to us nor to their competitors."

MINERS HAVE BOMBS

If, as the result of the plebiscit in Upper Silesia, that coal field also is lost to Germany, economic recovery will be impossible. There is a formidable French propaganda in Upper Silesia directed to turning the vote in favor of the Poles. The issue is in doubt, but I found a general conviction that the French propaganda was helping the German chances rather than hindering them.

"The French General at Kattowitz," said all my informants, "told the miners that he had machine guns, whereupon one of the miners shouted, "And we have bombs."

The coal famine has had many consequences. Very few trains are run and fares have gone up sevenfold. But the cost of labor has gone up even more. The result is that the railways, which used to be a valuable source of income to the States, are financially ruined. They have been unified under the Republic, but that has not helped them. The loss on them in the last financial year reached the enormous sum of 600 millions sterling.

One other consequence is more favorable. There are vast deposits of brown coal of low caloric value in the Empire. Hitherto they have been undeveloped, but I heard much at Hamburg especially, about certain experiments for making them economically productive.

The high cost of wages and the low value of the mark combine to depress industry. The violent fluctuations of the mark make business extremely difficult and one of the best expedients for overcoming the difficulty is the sending by foreign merchants of raw material to the factories to be worked up on a commission basis. This, I found was being done in several industries, notably the textile.

LABOR LEGISLATION

The labor legislation initiated by the Government has had equivocal results. The universal eight-hour day has, according to Dr. Dernburg, seriously interfered with the national output, and the prerogative of the workpeople to share in the control of the business, even to the extent of discussing contracts, declared by the employers to be unworkable. The men appointed no sooner begin to see the meaning of business than they are displaced by others more clamant. On the other hand, the wiser employers admit that the fault is with the captains of industry, who ought long ago to have taken the workmen into counsel and so prepared an educated and responsible industrial mind.

I have said (and this will be indorsed, I think, by all competent English observers) that there is a marked absence of feeling against England. Such bitterness as there is is due to the memory of the post war blockade, and the "English sickness" (rickets), which was largely the fruit of it, and which will remain a permanent handicap to the present generation of German children.

There is one other subject in regard to which much resentment is felt. It is the policy of ostracism which prevents the resumption of intercourse. The follies of this policy are illustrated by the case of a prominent business man I met. He had lived in London for twenty years, married an English-woman, and educated his family at English schools. In the last "Intern them all" stunt of the Yellow Press (as late as September, 1918), he was shut up. In the following February he was deported. As he was suffering from influenza, his wife followed him. Now he cannot return. Had his wife stayed in England he would (she being an English-woman) have been permitted to rejoin her; but as she followed him she must either stay in Germany or return alone and live alone. Cases of this kind of meaningless cruelty are innumerable.

And in this connection there is another grievance which no fair-minded Englishman can fail to deplore. It relates to the treatment of the people who have been deported, and who have left behind in England valuable furniture and effects. They are allowed neither their furniture nor the proceeds of its sale. It is in the hands of the Public Trustee, and if they consent to its sale the money is retained.

There are, I understand, fifteen thousand cases of this sort, and the hardship is all the worse because of the practical impossibility of having furniture in Germany today. The price has soared altogether out of the reach of the householder.

In one case that came before me—that of a man who has been of invaluable service to Englishmen in Germany in recent months, furniture, etc., of the value of over £1,200 was seized at his house in London early in the war. In reply to inquiries he has at last ascertained that it was sold as long ago as February, 1916. The proceeds are withheld, and all the satisfaction "the above-named enemy" (as he is genially called in the correspondence) can get is a promise of a statement of account when "the Clearing House has been set up in accordance with the Peace Treaty." It is surely time that the reputation of Great Britain for fair play was cleansed of such petty malignities against private individuals.

GREATEST TOUR OF ANY CAMPAIGN PLANNED BY COX

Wants To Visit Every State—Will Speak In N. Y. Once, And Perhaps Twice

GOING WEST IN SEPTEMBER

He Will Follow Roosevelt, Slated For First Invasion Of Progressive Area

Columbus, Ohio, July 24.—Governor James M. Cox is planning a speaking campaign which promises to outdo any effort put forward by a presidential candidate in the past The limit which he has placed upon his speaking tour is represented by his physical ability to meet the test, and by that only. He will leave Ohio soon after his notification on August 7, and from that moment will know little rest. He is in splendid physical condition for the fight and says that he will not spare himself.

It came out today that Governor Cox will join in the great fight which is to be made by the New York State leaders to put that State into the Democratic column. He will not only address meetings in New York, Brooklyn, The Bronx and Queens, but he will tour the up-State districts once at least, and possibly twice. All of the New England States will hear him, and he will make a hard fight in New Jersey and other States in that section which the Republicans are now claiming as safe ground.

Governor Cox probably will spend the entire month of September in California and other far Western States. He will meet the people of every State in the far West face to face, and talk to them about what he proposes to do in the cause of progressive doctrines in the event of his election. He also will make a comprehensive tour of the middle West invading every State which the Republicans are now asserting cannot be reached by the Democratic Party with any hope of success.

The only States which Cox may not have time to visit are some in the South where there is no doubt that the cause of the Democratic Party will triumph.

EVERY DOUBTFUL STATE.

"I shall visit every State," he said today, "which is not Democratic beyond the slightest doubt. There are no other kind," he added, with a smile.

This remark, perhaps, best illustrates the spirit in which Governor Cox is preparing to take up the fight. He expects to outdo Roosevelt and Hughes, so far as sustained campaigning is concerned.

Republican leaders who had hoped for a quiet time of it might as well disillusion themselves now. Cox is planning to be on the aggressive from the word go until either he or Senator Harding breezes under the wire a winner. He is supremely confident today, and the reports which have been reaching him have given him added reason for taking such a position.

In a general way the tentative program is to have Franklin D. Roosevelt make the first invasion of the West. Roosevelt probably will start soon after he is notified formally of his nomination at Hyde Park, N. Y., on August 9. Governor Cox is planning to attend these ceremonies.

From that vantage point the Governor expects now to go into the East, making a few speeches in the New England States, but without any definite or comprehensive program for a campaign at that time. He will, however, make several important speeches in the East while Roosevelt heads for the Far West if the present plans are carried out.

About September 1 Roosevelt will head East and Cox will start for the West. His reports now are that he has more than an even chance of carrying California on the basis of the advancement of progressive principles and industrial and economic justice, which the Cox followers hold Senator Harding does not in any sense represent. Therefore Governor Cox will make a big effort in California, where his Far Western headquarters will be established.

Cox will carry his message from California through all of the Western and Northwestern States on his way back to the Middle West and East. He will tear through that country, touching every spot where time will permit, and give straight from the shoulder talks on the issues involved.

BELIEVES IN HIS CAUSE

Governor Cox said today that he believed firmly in the cause which he represented and its opportunity for success and service to the country and that he would not spare himself in the fight ahead. The same spirit, he added, was held by his running mate, Franklin D. Roosevelt. It would be a fight to the finish, he said, and as he was satisfied that the American people believed in progress as opposed to the reaction for which his opponent stood, no matter how conscientiously such a stand might be taken, he was supremely confident of victory.

Some attention was attracted today by editorials which Governor Cox's newspaper, the Dayton News, devoted to the Harding speech of acceptance. Governor Cox said the editorials had been written by employes on his paper and he had had no part in their preparation. He had been told, he said, that they were "pretty good editorials," but added that they must not be accepted as his answer to Senator Harding, which would be contained in his speech of acceptance on August 7, and in his campaign addresses to follow.

The editorials were a general denunciation of Harding's stand on the League of Nations, without however, committing Cox to any detailed program. They expressed wonder as to how ex-President William H. Taft and other Republicans who had supported a League of Nations could accept the Harding stand. It was held that Harding had effected a pretty complete straddle, holding to his reactionary viewpoint, but without committing himself to much of anything.

Cox's statement that he had no part in the preparation of the editorials and had not even read them took away much of their effectiveness.

CONFERS WITH HURLEY

Governor Cox conferred today with Edward N. Hurley, former Chairman of the United States Shipping Board, and Senator Beckham of Kentucky.

Hurley talked over shipping and the general business program with the Governor. He said there had been a fine reaction in Illinois as the result of the nomination of Governor Cox. Hurley was accompanied by Edward Hulbert, a Chicago banker and business man, who has taken a strong stand for Governor Cox.

Senator Beckham told Governor Cox that he undoubtedly would carry Kentucky. He asked Cox to visit the States, however, and get his promise to make three or four speeches there. Beckham said the stand taken by Cox on all of the big issues, including the League of Nations and prohibition, was most acceptable to the Democrats and the progressive and independant voters of his State.

Governor Cox will see Senator Pomerane within the next day or two. Former Ambassador Gerard also has an engagement to talk over foreign policies. After that the Governor will settle down to the preparation of his address of acceptance.

Seaman On Trial In U.S. Court

R. Bascom, a member of the crew of the United States Shipping Board steamer Benoni, who was arrested on the vessel's arrival here on charges of mutinous conduct and assault was arraigned yesterday in the American Consular Court before United States Commissioner F. J. Schuhl.

U.S. District Attorney C. P. Holcomb prosecuted the case and Dr. H. C. Mei was appointed by the court to defend the accused seaman. Capt. Evan Jones, Master of the Benoni, who was complainant, said that on August 13 while the vessel was at Yokohama he reproved Bascom for sleeping on watch and that the seaman attacked him and brought about a strike on the vessel.

Berlin, July 2.—Constantine Fehrenbach, the new Chancellor of the German Republic, is a Roman Catholic member of the Centrist party. He is 68 years old. He was intended for the church and studied at Freiburg University, but abandoned theology for the law and established himself as an attorney at Freiburg, where he held several local public offices and in 1903 was elected to the Reichstag.

As presiding officer of the last Reichstag and of the National Assembly in difficult positions he displayed the ability of an accomplished parliamentarian. His impartiality won the respect of all parties. He is of a portly figure and is a ready extemporaneous speaker.

IS THIS YOUR TROUBLE?

A little trouble, quite easily remedied if dealt with in the right way, is the cause of much of the irritability, gloom, and that general sense of "out-of-sorts-ness" which habitually afflict many people. The trouble is constipation; its remedy is Pinkettes, the little laxatives, which, whilst wonderfully efficient, neither gripe nor purge.

If you are constipated, bilious, liverish, have sick headaches, coated tongue, foul breath, try Pinkettes TONIGHT, and see how much better you will feel tomorrow morning. Pinkettes also prevent diarrhoea and dysentery and relieve Piles. Obtainable from dealers, or at 60 cents the vial, post free, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

25 British Clergymen Starve To Death In Year

Low Wages Causes Parsons To Form National Clerical Union

London, July 7.—At least twenty-five Protestant ministers are reported to have died of starvation in England last year, and the parsons have now formed the National Clerical Union for "establishment of a minimum living wage for the clergy." While it is announced the union will follow the trend of trade unionism the clergymen have declared they have no intention to strike to enforce their demands.

They will seek not only to establish a minimum wage but also deal with provisions for adequate retiring pensions and pensions for widows and orphans of clergymen.

Rev. C. H. Lloyd Evans, acting secretary of the new movement, said few of the "inferior clergymen" earned more than £300 a year and a great many earned less. The union will seek to enlist the sympathy of the public.

Ruth Bangs Out Homer After Receiving Gift

It is a well-known fact that whenever baseball players, boxers etc., are presented with gifts on the field, in the ring, or elsewhere, by admiring friends, "Old Man Jynx" usually attaches himself to the honored athlete. Not so with Babe Ruth. The Colossus of Swat was presented with a diamond studded watch fob by admiring members of the Pro Patria Lodge of the Knights of Columbus just before a recent game at the Polo Grounds, and immediately proceeded to bang out his twenty-fifth home run of the season. The photograph shows Ruth holding the gift.

Harry Vardon's Advice To Golf Beginners

BY HARRY VARDON

Thousands and thousands of words have been written on "How to Play Golf," always beginning with instructions as to stance or manner of addressing the ball, and carrying on until theoretical perfection is reached.

You may read all the golf books that ever were printed, you may have at the tip of your tongue an apt criticism of every stroke that a golf beginner may make; but if you do not practice the game long and earnestly you need never expect to get the satisfaction it is capable of giving you. That is to say—you need never expect to play golf well unless you go at it practically.

The best thing a beginner can do to start himself on the high road to successful golfing is to try to find a good professional who fits him. By that I mean the beginner must seek as a teacher a man of his own type. The reason for it can be clearly explained. This is why:

A beginner will want to be like his teacher. He will look to the professional as a standard of perfection and will try to come up, or rather, come down to that standard. He will imitate. He may be unconscious of the fact that he does imitate. But he does, and he ought to, for that is why he places himself in the professional's care—to be taught the practical along with the theoretical golf that the professional knows. And that is why I say the beginner and the inapt golfer too should seek for physical prototypes to teach them the game. It is better for a small man to learn it from a man his size and for a tall man to seek out a tall professional, though it is not imperative.

A fat pupil could never attain the body twist that makes the swing and the drive for the slender teacher.

If you are ambitious to be a sound golf player rather than a brilliant and perhaps erratic one, then it is well to early learn the lesson of playing the game. Don't start out by playing your opponent. But play golf. Because the other side is a stroke ahead it is very unwise to try to sink a putt from somewhere in the fairway. Go through with your approach shot and be content to run down for your par. Give the other side the chance to make mistakes. It is not gameness to take a big chance before you really need it; it is foolishness. Caution is as surely a part of the game as is accuracy.

Enough has been written since the beginning of golf about the respective merits of grips, of the over-lapping grip, the interlocking grip, the grip in which you hold the shaft partly with the palm and partly with the fingers and the clutch that points your knuckles downward—to convince any reasonably weak and yielding man that each method is best.

Each of these particular grips has some advocate or other who has been more or less successful in the practise of it. I, of course, have my own preference and recommend it to beginners because I have found it successful.

I say, grip the shaft high with the fingers of your left hand, pointing the knuckles in the direction of your drive. Bring your right hand closely up under your left, but not so tightly as to in any way impede the smooth arc of your swing. After you have determined upon your grip and have learned the easy, supple swing, then depend upon your instructor to tell you what to do with them.

Just as surely as you start out to learn golf practically, you are going to find it necessary to unlearn various things. In your pursuit of a "bogey" knowledge of golf—pure and isolated theory—you are sure to have moments when you actually think yourself able to carry through certain strokes. You will believe that you have mastered something and will have fixed in your mind the exact method of it.

When you decide to take up golf practically, you have something that persists in going along with you, and that is that preconceived idea. It may be quite all right. But the odds are that you will have to lose it somewhere on the course. The nearer the first tee, the better!

Practice does not always make perfect. It might do so if life were long enough. It does start you on the way to perfection; it is platitudinary to say that you can't expect to "hole" perfection unless you make an "approach shot."

Man O' War's Pilot Injured In Spill

Clarene Kummer, the star jockey who has piloted the famous thoroughbred Man of War to most all his victories, was painfully injured in a spill at Aqueduct race track recently. Kummer was up on Costly Colors and when the horse stumbled and fell was thrown heavily, suffering a broken shoulder. He will probably be out of the saddle for several weeks. Costly Colors was injured so badly it was necessary to destroy him.

DEMPSEY TRAINS FOR COMING BOUT

Heavyweight Champion Begins To Get In Shape For His Fight With Brennan

New York, July 23.—Jack Dempsey spent another strenuous day for the benefit of hundreds of metropolitan boxing fans at his temporary training quarters on Fifty-eighth street near Broadway. Not many know it but the world's heavyweight champion has begun light training for his encounter with K. O. Bill Brennan, which will take place within the next few weeks before the club offering the best inducements.

When Dempsey got through yesterday he was surrounded by several fistic lights such as Benny Leonard, Jack Britton, Joes Benjamin and William Meehan, Brennan is training around Central Park. He will put on the finishing touches either at Lakewood or Atlantic City.

HAD A BUSY INNING

Lofty Nemitz, a young southpaw pitcher of the Memphis team of the Southern Association, pitched an inning against the Atlanta Club the other day. And this is what happened: He walked four men, allowed four hits and four runs and fanned the side.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells, which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying power, are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them wilfully with narcotics. Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"Your preparation known as Castoria I have used for years in children's complaints and I have found nothing better."
JOHN J. LEPPA, M. D., Cleveland, Ohio.

"I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."
A. F. FRELER, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"For several years I recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."
EDWIN F. PARDEE, M. D., New York City.

"I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild, laxative effect and freedom from harm."
EDWARD PARRISH, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your Castoria is a meritorious household remedy. It is purely vegetable and acts as a mild cathartic. Above all, it does no harm, which is more than can be said of the great majority of children's remedies."
VICTOR H. COFFMAN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."
J. A. PARKER, M. D., Kansas City, Mo.

ACCEPT AMERICAN VIEW OF LEAGUE

Lord Chancellor Declares That Europe Is Prepared To Submit

Southampton, England, July 24.—The Lord High Chancellor, Baron Birkenhead, speaking at the Pilgrims' lunch today in celebration of the departure of the Pilgrim Fathers, said: "My view of the future of the League of Nations is that its power, its influence, will depend precisely upon the contribution which the American nation thinks proper to make to it. The Americans created it; it is their child. To whatever party is committed the control of America we are entitled to hope from the speeches which have been made on both sides that their part in that great responsibility will be fully and completely taken by the American people.

"In the crisis of the war the league was brought forward by President Wilson in a sense that compelled the attention of the whole world, because President Wilson occupied a position of extraordinary power. For it full responsibility must be borne by the American nation. The whole body of the Allies has made a generous and unanimous response.

"The whole of Europe is prepared to define its power and its functions in terms which the American nation ultimately desires to impress upon us. Nor is it in our power to lend it greater or higher importance than the American nation is prepared to concede.

"If, as a result of their present political preoccupations, their deliberate decision is to attenuate its importance and diminish its functions, we shall and must acquiesce in that view. But I am persuaded that we have inherited from American eloquence and idealism a conception which may still pluck some salvage from the bloody and devastating struggle."

daily—it is impossible for your teeth to collect "so-called" film or your mouth to become over-acid. We claim no "secret process" with Kolynos. What we do claim is that your teeth under the care of Kolynos will become CLEAN—Just as clean as an ivory knife handle.

WHITE—Just as white as Nature intended them to be. We use no bleaching chemicals.

FREE FROM DECAY—Because a clean tooth does not decay.

Do not be led away by tooth pastes which advertise themselves as "bleachers" or "solvents." Teeth can only be cleaned in the old-time rational way—with a good tooth brush and a sensible tooth paste which cleans and polishes, and leaves your teeth what they should be—just clean.

Siccawei Weather Reports

2.—The typhoon passes between the Loochoos and the Meiiaco Sima: a whole hurricane rages all day long at Ishigakijimo. The cyclonic movement is felt as far as W Nippon and the middle of the Yellow sea. The second center stands between Luzon and Formosa, but observations are lacking to locate it exactly: another trouble is developing between Hainan and Annam. Cloudy but still fine day here. Continuous rain in North Formosa.

3.—The pressure is falling decidedly. The typhoon clouds appear more numerous than yesterday. The wind is constantly backing to NE with squalls, not hard yet, but of increasing intensity. The storm is approaching.

MOVIES POPULAR IN ROME

Newly Rich Learn How To Dress By Watching Films

Rome, July 5.—Rome's enthusiasm for moving pictures is enormous. Milan, which is a much more densely populated city, patronises the "movies" much less than Rome.

The great increase in Rome dates from the second half of 1919, when the "sharks," as they call the war profiteers here, first came to the front. A newspaper writer lately accused them of going to the picture theaters with their wives and families in order to learn how people in what they imagine to be smart society dress and move and act.

When Children Stop Playing

Don't neglect this first sign that the children are not feeling well. The first thing to do is to give them a good laxative. It is probable that their lack of energy is due to an approaching bilious attack.

The British Labor Party Conference

Note: In view of the British Miners' decision to strike, and the approval of their cause by the Triple Alliance of trades unions, the following account of the British Labor Party Conference at Scarborough, by J. Ramsay MacDonald, taken from The Nation of July 24, is of timely interest:

IN every way the greatest conference ever held by the British Labor Party has just finished its sittings at the somewhat fashionable watering place of Scarborough. There were something like 1,200 delegates present, about one-fourth of whom came from the local parties and the remainder from the trade unions and Socialist societies. The former group contained a large element of new people, and it was interesting to hear the tones of the English public school and university following in debate the burr of the Northern miner or the Doric of the Clyde worker. Modestly, in the midst of a row of working-class delegates, sat one of our titled folks bearing a name that was brought over by the Conqueror. There, massed in front of us who were on the platform, was the proof positive that the Labor Party is no longer a class affair, but has appealed with success to the intelligence of all classes.

The varied teams pulled well together. Before the meeting, some of our newspapers brought out their annual stunt that Scarborough was to see devastating disagreement. Scarborough displayed energetic unity and evangelical harmony. It settled once and for all that the Labor Party is a great national political movement with principles and a policy which justify its claim to be considered as a governing party. War divisions have gone absolutely. The war Right has moved over to the Left, which finds its ideas and proposals becoming the unanimous finding of the whole party. The men who stood solitary in these conferences four years ago led easily in Scarborough. Not only did they enjoy a monopoly of personal tributes (not a new thing), their lead was accepted and by great majorities they had their way. Cotton remains somewhat conservative, but the miners and the railway workers are a solid Left block.

The new formidable combination of unskilled labor still lacks good leadership and is in the hands of men who were swamped by the war, have become very respectable, and so may remain swamped. The great bulk of the local party representation is Left. One small section of the Socialists—the British Social Party—represents Moscow, but the great overmastering section—the Independent Labor Party—repudiates both Moscow and Geneva and occupies common ground with the French Socialist Party and the German Independents. In some Labor Party hearts there is still something like jealous enmity against this powerful political Socialist party, but that enmity cannot lift its head at these conferences now. That Denikin kind of counter-revolution within the Labor Party is now scotched and will soon be forgotten. It is important that American readers should understand where the center of gravity of the Labor Party is, and Scarborough left that matter in no doubt.

Another important question is: "What is the party's position in the international movement?" This question includes: "By what method does the party propose to gain its ends?" At present the party is affiliated to the Second International and two resolutions were debated proposing a change. One was that the party should join the Third, and the other that it should simply break its connection with the Second. Both were defeated, the first by 2,940,000 to 225,000, the other by 1,010,000 to 516,000. The meaning of this is that the Labor Pary definitely declares that it will neither aid nor abet revolution by violence, nor does it enter into its head to seize power except by democratic means. The Russian social revolution is not the only way by which Socialism can come; the Soviet is not the only way by which the proletariat can rule. The British Labor Party at Scarborough put itself at the head of the democratic Socialist movement. It was as determined as any Third International group, that Allied hostility to Russia should cease and that Russia should not be hampered by outside interference in choosing its political and social forms of government, but at the same time it set itself up quite definitely as the exponent and champion of a method of Socialist advance in sharp conflict to that advocated from Moscow.

But while it took up this attitude it remained realist. It is not to create an imaginary world from bricks of logic. There it was faced by a Government that is as independent of public opinion as King Charles I, a Government that gets an overwhelming majority upon issues that were always humbug and are now confessedly so, a Government that uses that majority to make wars and embark upon policies irrespective of the national will, a Government whose conception of democratic control is that, from the moment that election results are declared until the Parliament is prorogued, majorities are absolute and unrepresentative. We are in a worse fix than even that, for we have ministers whose words are but wind and upon whose statements no reliance can be placed.

Is a constitutional party, a party that believes in organic transformation, deprived, by reason of its principles, of every swiftly acting weapon which it might use to curb the autocratic power of such a government and counteract the work it does in violation of parliamentary methods? The Labor Party says: "No," but in saying "No," it makes it clear that this action—as when the dockers refused to load the "Jolly George" with munitions for Poland—is exceptional and can be justified only when taken against those underhand policies inaugurated by self-will and by a wanton disregard of the responsibility of ministers to a sovereign people.

The mere schoolman will, I know, make havoc with this departure on the part of the Labor Party from strict parliamentary methods and with this engrafting of revolutionary action upon parliamentary stems. But the Labor Party has political practical sense for its justification and that is all that it cares about. In the development of policy, time is everything. The Labor Party may protest in Parliament, but if the Government is allowed to commit the nation, the leaf follows the bud, the flower the leaf, and the fruit the flower, and no man can stay the evolving process. The Labor Party must stay the hand of the sower of the tares, and to do that it is willing to support "direct action" if everything else fails. But, varying the simile, this is a medicine for an ailing body, not a food for a healthy one.

When considering this problem, the Scarborough Conference was met with a difficulty of a temporary, it is to be hoped, but a troublesome nature. Its parliamentary representatives as a team are conspicuously inadequate. The almost complete failure of Mr. Asquith since his return to Parliament has alone prevented the total eclipse of the Labor Opposition. In an article already published in The Nation, I explained the unfortunate attitude of the cotton operatives in filling in a candidate for the Nelson bye-election. The selection has since been made and a candidate was chosen so ill adapted for the position that during the contest he failed completely to rouse any interest and his election meetings were a series of dead failures. This is the secret of the weakness of Labor in Parliament.

The Conference was greatly disturbed by this, but it could not censure its parliamentary representatives without damaging the movement and the press was there for spicy titbits. It resolved, however, by 1,813,000 votes to 832,000 that "the time had arrived for developing a greater efficiency on the part of the Parliamentary Labor Party" and requested "bodies affiliated to the party to make such arrangements as will permit their parliamentary representatives to give continuous attention to their duties in the House of Commons." The academic advocates of industrial Parliaments would do well to study the experiences of the British Labor Party. The recommendatory ending of this resolution does not touch the real point, though, if carried out it would bring a minor improvement.

Unsatisfactory as the parliamentary party may be in breadth of vision and in resource, the Conference itself was lacking in neither. No matter what was the subject under discussion there were delegates present who were masters of it and whose contributions to the debates kept the discussions on an admirably high level. Men who had been in Russia, in Hungary, in Poland, in Germany spoke on the international resolutions; men who had been in India, in Egypt, in the Dominions, spoke on the imperial ones; men who were leaders of trade unions, chairmen of municipal bodies, responsible for administration, spoke on industrial and domestic ones.

No other British political party could have brought under one chairmanship such a body of delegates. From the opening on Tuesday morning till the closing late on Friday afternoon, I sat looking upon a crowded and an intent hall and listening to debates kept upon the highest possible level of importance and to speeches rich in their matter and accomplished in their delivery. Applause was given generously to what was nothing but sentiment; votes were given rigidly to what was nothing but common sense. There was no narrow class interest displayed; the subjects were related to world affairs and were in proportion to their importance; a unity of idea ran throughout.

The Scarborough program was a Labor manifesto to the nation and the world. In the forefront were International concerns—the revision of the Peace Treaty so as to settle the conflicts of Europe and put the nations on their feet again; the recognition of the Russian Government; the ending of all intrigues directed against foreign states and of interference in their affairs by military missions; the denunciation of all secret agreements; economic arrangements to deal with the famine in Central Europe; the reconstruction of the League of Nations. It resolved to send a deputation to the Prime Minister to bring before him the results of the investigation which the party's representatives have made in Hungary, Russia, and Finland. In the affairs of Empire, it pinned its faith to self-determination as a fundamental, though not absolute, principle and accepted as a rule of statesmanship that governments, whether in India, Egypt, or Ireland, should have national assent. It condemned the Amritsar shootings, but insisted that the civil authorities were responsible, that the military criminals should not be made the scapegoats to carry the sins of others, and that the Viceroy should be recalled.

On domestic matters it made declarations on several minor matters important here but of no interest abroad, but it reaffirmed its belief that the continued existence of an enormous debt was a menace to national placidity and a means of grievous oppression and that the debt could be dealt with only by the conscription of wealth. It stood by nationalisation of industries and services like mines, railways, canals, and electric power, but it rejected the nationalisation of the liquor traffic. Curiously enough, the body which brought about this defeat was the Socialist Independent Labor Party. We are no dogmatists here, and whatever may guide us it is not the mental servility of verbal consistency. A battle royal raged round this question, the Independent Labor Party speakers dealing the decisive blows, and prohibition was rejected by 2,603,000 votes to 472,000, public control by 1,672,000 to 1,352,000, while the Independent Labor Party resolution in favor of an extended form of local option was carried by 2,003,000 to 623,000.

On housing the Conference called for the resignation of Dr. Addison, the Minister of Health, state loans for building, the control of building material, and the encouragement of direct labor, together with an increased hygienic standard of houses. One of the greatest difficulties which face housing projects was pointed out by a Glasgow delegate who produced official figures showing that on a typical working-class house built before the war the interest on capital was £8 per annum, whereas the same house built now would have to bear £60 for interest.

Sanity and courage, practical capacity and well-defined principle ruled the Conference. Its voice was the voice of constitutionalism and organic change speaking in the midst of revolutionary conditions. From beginning to end it was the deliberations of men who are largely responsible for municipal government and who are ready at a moment's notice to take over the control of national affairs.

A Whimsical Editorial

(New York American)

If, as our teacher tells us, it is the duty of the United States to give lessons in democracy to the rest of the world, it would be a pity to miss an opportunity which has unexpectedly presented itself. Here is an item from Rome, published in a New York newspaper, which ought to interest every father and mother in this country:

"The children of the Italian royal family are rapidly growing up. The oldest, Princess Yolanda, is just nineteen and has inherited much of the dark beauty of her mother, Queen Elena. Princess Mafalda, who is only seventeen, is a gentle girl with great charm of manner, who resembles rather the princesses of the House of Savoy. They have been brought up in a healthy, open-air life in the castles belonging to the royal family in Piedmont or on the shores of the Mediterranean.

"Prince Humbert, the heir apparent, is a fine, good-looking boy of nearly sixteen, who is devoted to every kind of sport, in the intervals of the mental training which he is undergoing, to fit him for his future position.

"Princess Yolanda delights to accompany her father on motor trips in the Campagna, and lately went with him to spend some hours of serious study of the latest excavations at Ostia, the port of Rome in ancient imperial days."

When all is said and done, the King of Italy and his royal spouse are, after all, only human beings and must feel very happy to see their children growing up so nicely. In order to reciprocate the delightful sentiments of the correspondent who sent this news item across the ocean, we take pleasure in returning the compliment by offering to the newspapers of Italy the following bit of democratic information:

"The Jones children, in East One Hundred and Seventy-third street, are rapidly growing up. The oldest, Minnie, is just eighteen and works as stenographer for the Excelsior Button Company, but hopes that, some day, she will get into moving pictures. Her sister, Katie, who is fifteen, goes to the public school. She is spending her vacation in trolley trips to Coney Island. Katie looks like her father. The children have been brought up in the healthy, open-air life of Van Cortlandt Park. Jimmy, the youngest child, spends most of his time on top of a hill which commands a view of the Polo Baseball Grounds. He is crazy over baseball. The two younger children delight in accompanying their father to the movies."

We hope the Italian newspapers will copy this. We also venture the assertion that if little Prince Humbert would drop over here for a few weeks and let Jimmy Jones treat him to a surreptitious glimpse of a professional baseball game he would have a better time than Jimmy Jones would have if some one showed him the excavations at Ostia.

JUST GO ON HOPING

With the presidential election coming on, it is the League of Nations and the Great War which provide planks for the candidates' platforms. Some of the sons of the land discovered by Columbus are wondering if their country will ever come out of the War, but they have no need to worry, there is still plenty of time, for Sir Oliver Lodge thinks that this old world of ours will last for another million years at least.

Think of it! Another million years! Why my dear old thing of a patient reader, in that time the League of Nations may be an accomplished fact, and—and I say, it is just possible that our new municipal white elephant will be finished.

AS A MATTER OF FACT

Dear Domino: Have you ever noticed how often in conversation the speaker will gently take you by the lapel of your coat and say in a mysterious way: "As a matter of fact it is or it isn't? As a matter of fact it has often been said to me, and I'll bet you, as a matter of fact, it has been said to you.

W. E.

As a matter of fact it is true,
That the Yankee now makes his own brew,
And wood alcohol,
Can make a man fall
From virtue, and foolish things do—
As a matter of fact.

As a matter of fact, take my word,
To marry is really absurd.
But girls of Shanghai,
Will you tell me why
The bachelor flies like a bird—
As a matter of fact?

THE MODERN HUMORIST

The modern humorist is born. Nobody knows why, but there it is, and we have got to make the best of it. There is the fellow who insists on telling you his latest story. You let him carry right on to the end. Then you tell him to go right on to the end because you like that story always—always, ever since you heard it in 1887, or was it in 1888? You tell him to tell you the story all over again while you sit back and enjoy a smoke while he is telling it.

ANOTHER TYPE OF HUMORIST

There is the fellow whose richest enjoyment is when a friend falls down a flight of stairs and breaks his neck. Of course, he is sorry he has broke his neck, but it makes the joke richer.

STILL ANOTHER TYPE

Another humorist is the fellow who enjoys seeing you miss your train. He will sit down and laugh for hours over that. He can laugh so much over a joke like that that he is compelled to take a week off to work off the laughs.

A LOCAL TYPE

John Chinaman has his own particular way of seeing and enjoying a joke. If one of his fellow countrymen falls off a tram, when the vehicle is travelling as fast as the present regulations allow, and if the said unfortunate one pitches so hard on his head that gore flows from the open wounds then he will roar with laughter, smack his knees, and do a sort of step dance with both feet beating the atmosphere. He is a funny devil. If he sees a foreign devil chasing the straw hat that the present typhoon weather gently lifts, he will hi yah until the end of the chapter or until you murder him.

POLITICS

"To most people, of course, politics are a nuisance and, at best, a secondary pursuit.

"Politics are glu-glu, like water coming out of a bottle, and politicians are the stoppers of bottles. We buy them for their brand—in the mass they form an entire; we take them out when we want a drink; sometimes, when the corks rot, or won't come out, we break the bottle's neck."

Flags a-flying and armor tight,
But I am the fellow you've first to fight—

Creel Wilson's Defender

Declares All Fourteen Points Were Written Into Treaty—Attacks General Wood

George Creel's alliterative volume, "The War, the World and Wilson," just published by Harper and Brothers, is an eulogy of President Wilson and the part he played at the Peace Conference. The book is written as if it were the President himself telling the people the truth of the whole matter just as it happened.

Mr. Creel charges in several chapters, in fact almost throughout the work, that the facts about the war and the peace have been distorted by enemies of the President. In the very first chapter and on the second page he declares:

"Our might struck the shackles of tyranny from the body of the world, but it was our pledges that set free the heart of the world. America, without dissent, indorsed these great guaranties of a new and better order, and the allied Governments accepted them and hailed them as words of light and guidance. At home they gave unexampled unity and indomitable resolve; abroad they poured like wine into the war-weary veins of the Allies, won the support of neutral nations, and struck at the very foundations of enemy morale. The world, hopeless, despairing, turned to us as the forlorn of Galilee turned to Christ, not knowing, but believing; not asking, but trusting.

"It was the giving of these pledges that won the war; it is the repudiation of these pledges that is losing the peace. What is the use of mincing words? The moral leadership that was our pride is now our shame. The peoples of earth are turning from us even as they turned to us, and in their hearts is a vaster bitterness than comes from any mere betrayal of the body."

Apparently Creel reflects the President's ideas as to how the nations of the world regard this country since the Senate repudiated the treaty. Here is an extract from a part dealing with the necessity of a League of Nations which promises to become a campaign issue:

". . . Never was choice so plain. Either a League of Nations, a great world partnership in world reconstruction, eager and effective in restoration and stabilisation, abating the passions and despairs of humanity by the sanities of its justice, or else a military establishment sufficiently large and powerful to guard our shores against the rising storm. There is no parallel for the madness that strikes down the Peace Treaty with one vote, insulting and alienating the whole world, and with another vote reduces naval appropriations, denies universal training, wipes out our merchant marine, and utterly annihilates the aircraft program.

"It is the people, as always in every great crisis, that must meet these problems and give these answers. Poisoned by partisanship, the bankruptcy of Congress is utter and absolute. Government by proxy has fallen down. It is the men and women of America who must fight the peace even as they fought the war. Not Republicans nor Democrats, not conservatives nor radicals, but the people as a whole; the countless millions who are not seen or heard, but whose energy and hopes and devotions are the strength of democracy."

WILSON NOT A POLITICIAN

One chapter is devoted to Mr. Wilson himself; it is a defense against the attacks made upon the Executive and deals with the President's personality, especially with the charge that he is "autocratic."

"As far as appearances are concerned," the author tells us, "there is a certain measure of justification for the repeated charge that the President is inclined to autocracy, preferring to 'play a lone hand' instead of inviting counsel; that he is cold and lacks human warmth; that he is selfish and self-centered; that he is without capacity for friendship, and that he has worked disintegration by his disregard of Congress."

And in defense of these charges the writer says:

"This clash of diametrically opposed conceptions of power, while at the bottom of the President's inharmonious relations with Congress, was given intensity by personal dissimilarities no less fundamental. Woodrow Wilson looks at things from the standpoint of the statesman; the average office-holder approaches government from the standpoint of machine politics. The politician is concerned only with votes, the statesman with results; the one has an eye upon the popularities of the moment, the other upon history."

Creel points to "the treadmill activities of the White House," declaring that in truth its occupant has little time for anything else and that the Presidency can hardly be regarded in the light of a job.

"I saw him [Mr. Wilson] many times," the author says, "when his face had the gray of ashes, but the one complaint that I ever heard was on the score of sleepiness. 'I'm getting like Dickens's Fat Boy,' he laughed one day, 'I

Mystery of Language and Thought Explained—Persons Born Deaf and Dumb Think as Much as Normal Ones

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

"Is a person born deaf and dumb and never educated able to think? Thinking as we know it is unconsciously forming a series of unspoken words in the brain. Not having any language known to them, in what way, if any, do such persons form their thoughts, or are their actions governed entirely by instinct"—H. J. B., Chicago.

It is a mistake to suppose that there can be no thought without words. No language expresses more than a fraction of the thinking done by the mind. If you will carefully analyse your mental operations you will see that thoughts precede words, and words are sought simply as a medium through which the thought can be impressed upon other minds or as a means of outward expression and communication.

Observe what a multitude of thoughts occur to which no words correspond, and which, if you communicate them at all, find expression only through actions or signs. A man speaks through his eyes, his fingers, arms, every attitude and motion, the flushing and paling of his skin—an unspoken, unwritten language oozes from him. Words do not give birth to this; that would be impossible because words are the product of thought, invented for its use.

This universal and multiform expression of thought, in which every part of the body under the immediate control of the brain shares, is as much a part of the native equipment of the deaf-and-dumb person as of the man born with perfect hearing.

THOUGHT HAS LIFTED WORLD

Before discussing that fact, however, consider this: If language preceded thought, and if thinking consisted in forming "unspoken words in the brain," there could have been no intellectual advance made by the human race. The ideas that lifted man from savagery to civilisation did not have their birth in words; they gradually dawned in the mind, and then language was invented to give them currency and definiteness, so that many minds might grasp them and understand them in the same sense.

When Wordsworth saw the statue of Newton "with his prism and silent face," there dawned in his mind the thought, which he afterward wrought into words, that this was:

"The marble index of a mind
forever
Voyaging through strange seas
of thought alone."

None of those words shaped or preceded the thought in the poet's mind, and Wordsworth himself no doubt would have said that the full richness of that thought, as he conceived it in the presence of the statue, was not expressed in the words with which he sought to picture it to other minds. Language hampers thought, limits, confines, distorts and misrepresents it. Every writer and speaker feels that.

NOT EXPRESSIBLE IN WORDS

Consider, too, that Newton's thoughts were not expressible in words. He had to invent a mathematical language for them before they could be communicated, even in part, to his fellow men. Einstein's thoughts, in developing his theory of relativity with all its astonishing sequences, was entirely independent of language. It is a kind of cry of despair that he utters when he says that there are not more than ten men in the world who can understand him.

Well, there is no reason known, none developed by 200 years of expert study of the subject, why a deaf-mute might not be born with the mental powers of a Newton or an Einstein. It is a great mistake to assume that the deaf-mute owes his intelligence to his education, which has taught him to read other people's language and to express himself by means of an artificially developed system of signs.

Says Rev. Arnold H. Payne, an authority on this subject: "The deaf child expresses himself in the sign language of his own accord. If the deaf boy meets with some one who will use gesture to him, a new sign will be invented, as occasion requires, by one or the other, to express a new idea, and if it be a good one it is tacitly adopted to express that idea, and so an entire language is built up." And again he says: "Signs are a more beautiful language than English and provide possibilities of a wealth of expression which English does not possess and which probably no other language possesses."

AN EXPLODED IDEA

It is an ancient exploded and absurd idea that the deaf and dumb are on the mental level of idiots. There is no necessary mental deficiency in the deaf and dumb child. His natural language is that of signs, by which the most abstract ideas are perfectly conveyed. Like all other children, he learns a language by imitation. It needs only the brilliant history of Helen Keller, who is blind as well as deaf and dumb, and of her predecessor, Laura Bridgman, to prove that intelligence is not limited by language. Helen Keller's wonderful teacher would be the last to claim that it was she who imparted the power of thinking to her pupil. She simply put her in touch with the ordinary person's ways of expressing thought.

could go to sleep at an angle of ninety-five degrees.'"

One of the interesting chapters in the book is entitled: "The Case of Leonard Wood." Creel gives the General credit for nothing and sets forth documents to show that he is not entitled to any of the glory others have given him, not even excepting the part the General played in his Cuban campaign. He implies that Gen. Wood has hardly a right to the medal of honor that he wears.

WHY WOOD STAYED HERE

Gen. Wood was not sent to France, Creel says, "for the simple reason that Gen. Pershing did not call for him," and adds:

"As chairman of the Committee on Public Information, with duty to stimulate and guard the national morale, I made it my business to inquire into the facts in the case. At the time of General Pershing's departure for France I knew, as did every one else in Government, that it had been made plain to him that he would not be hampered by home meddling. Even as he was held to full responsibility, so was he given full power in the selection of those men upon whom he would have to depend. His list, therefore, was approved as a matter of course, and went into the War Department files until further action should be demanded. As I remember it, the whole trouble arose from the fact that General March treated the circumstance as one of military routine entirely, utterly failing to realise its political importance. Instead of informing General Wood at once that he had not been chosen to go to France, he followed the established procedure and waited for the completion of the training period before issuing orders to the division commanders. General Wood, however, left Camp Funston in advance of the division and without waiting to receive his orders. General March sent them to him in New York, and in consequence there was an appearance of eleventh-hour action, an effect of jerking General Wood from the very deck of the transport.

"As a matter of course, General Wood carried his complaint to the President and was told plainly that the list would not be revised in the personal interest of any soldier or politician."

Creel says that "the reputation of Wood is built upon assumption rather than fact, on clever suggestion rather than provable statement. His military genius is made a matter of general belief by reason of constant allusion to Indian campaigns in which he played heroic parts assuming command of an infantry battalion after it had 'lost its last officer,' and conducting himself in such manner as to win a medal of honor."

And then the author says: "This record, when taken to pieces, is seen to be an absurd jumble of baseless claims," which he endeavors to support by records from the War Department.

Toward the last of the book Mr. Creel devotes a chapter to the President's Fourteen Points, quoting them and telling how they have been utilised, as he sees it, for the good of Europe; and continues:

"Let there be an end to the lie—circulated by malignants and accepted by the half-baked—that the Fourteen Point were 'thrown into the discard.' Every one of them was written into the treaty, and the result will stand for all time as a monument to the courage and faith of Woodrow Wilson. . . .

"The Germans, in their heart of hearts, know well that the peace is written in fairer terms than they ever expected. Had it not been for the attitude of Senator Lodge and his Republican associates, Germany would have accepted the treaty without any large demur, and by now would be working back to prosperity and the esteem of the world. As it is, she counts upon the Republican party to force America into a repudiation of the peace, thereby entailing a confusion, a general weakness, that may enable her to escape entirely."

There is a chapter telling how the treaty was killed and another devoted to a plea for the League of Nations.

Opera-Ballet To Be Revived In Paris

Combination Of Singing And Dancing In Action

Paris, July 24.—For the first time since the beginning of the eighteenth century the Paris Opera is preparing for the presentation of an opera-ballet, or combination of singing and ballet scenes to form integral action.

This kind of a ballet was greatly in vogue from 1718 to 1735. The new effort to again popularise this kind of a production will begin with the presentation of "The Daughter of the Lotus," in which Indian dances of the period of the Mongolian invasion in the fifteenth century will afford opportunity for elaborate scenic and ballet effects.
